

DocuPunch® PLUS Automatic Punch Machine

The new and improved James Burn DocuPunch® PLUS automatic punching machine is the latest generation of the James Burn line of industrial binding machinery. It is as simple to use as a standard photocopier machine, which means that no special training is needed for your operators, making it easy to integrate into more versatile environments and departments. It features hands-free operation with setup that can be completed in under 1 minute using the LCD touch screen controls. The DocuPunch® binding punch machine is an impressive machine that has adjustable speed settings, with the fastest setting making it the fastest machine in its mid-volume automatic punching class. It was designed with the print on-demand market in mind, so your operators can quickly set up the machine, press start, and walk away. Installing and changing the punching die for different binding styles can be done in seconds, and a convenient storage hatch holds up to 3 dies for quick-access.
